Protecting Your Company from Theft, Terrorism & Other Risks in a Post 09/11 World

Barry Brandman

President

Danbee Investigations

With the risks that companies face today, few executives can afford to rely on cosmetic or superficial security safeguards. Here's a unique opportunity to learn about the biggest mistakes some companies have made - and how it has cost them dearly. Our guest speaker will provide you with insight regarding which asset protection controls are ineffective. You will also learn about proven techniques that can dramatically reduce your vulnerability to inventory disappearance, cargo theft, product tampering, sabotage and other serious security threats. You'll also hear about the Customs-Trade Partnership Against Terrorism, the largest government/industry initiative in history, how it is having a dramatic impact on supply chain companies.

Barry Brandman

Barry Brandman is President of Danbee Investigations, an organization that provides professional investigative and security consulting services to hundreds of firms globally, including many of the top names in the logistics field. Danbee's services focus on all aspects of business crime, including fraud, sabotage, inventory loss, workplace substance abuse, cybercrime and cargo theft.

Recognized as one of the nation's foremost security experts, Barry has appeared on network television and has been a guest speaker for the CSCMP, the 3PL Summit, Food Distributors International, the Pharma Secure Conference, the Logistics & Supply Chain Forum, the International Cargo Security Forum, the Foreign Trade Association, the International Association of Refrigerated Warehouses, and the National Retail Federation.

The Warehousing Education and Research Council has published Barry's security manual entitled Security Best Practices: Protecting Your Distribution Center From Inventory Theft, Fraud, Substance Abuse, Workplace Violence, Cybercrime and Terrorism.

In addition, Barry has authored articles on security for numerous publications, including Security Management, Corporate Security, Risk Management, Global Logistics & Supply Chain Strategies, Inbound Logistics, Warehousing Management, and Transportation & Distribution.
